The annual ISMP Cheers Awards honor individuals, institutions, and groups who have demonstrated exemplary commitment to the continued science and study of medication safety. The George Di Domizio Award is given in memory of an industry advocate for patient safety. The Lifetime Achievement Award is given in memory of ISMP Trustee David P. Vogel, who worked tirelessly to help promote safe medication practices. All winners are recognized for their positive examples and/or teamwork through their implementation of medication safety strategies.

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD WINNER

David Cousins, BPharm, MSc, FRPharmS, PhD, is a true pioneer in medication error prevention, and has tirelessly pursued development of a medication safety policy agenda in England that is now modeled around the world. As a hospital chief pharmacist he raised awareness of medication safety by writing a monthly journal column on medication errors. As head of safe medication practice at the former National Patient Safety Agency (NPSA) and then NHS England, he helped develop the NHS National Reporting and Learning System and issue patient safety alerts. He also was a key author of the NPSA “Design for Safety” publication series, illustrating how good design can help minimize risk arising from the labeling and packaging of medicines, and helped establish the role of medication safety officers in NHS organizations. He is a founding member and committee member of the International Medication Safety Network (IMSN).
